Description

The project is aimed at the institutionalization of the public debate on the issues of EU-Georgia relations on the basis of partnership among the governmental, non-governmental, business and interest institutions (so-called sectoral Working Groups) as well as on building and strengthening Georgia's capacities for implementation of the Association Agreement. The project's expected result is the establishment of the permanent, open and structured platform for public discourse on issues of the Georgia-EU relations – National Convention on the EU, as well as set of recommendations developed by the working groups. The project is based on the transfer of Slovak know-how from political, economic and social transition. The target groups are: the government, parliament, public-opinion- and policy-makers in Georgia, media, professional and interest institutions, entrepreneurs and businessmen, non-governmental organizations, political parties, universities, municipalities and/or the general public.
