Description

The project is a continuation of previous projects of global education which the applicant realized in partnership with TUZVO (Global education at FEE, Global education in context, Global education for universities of the 21st century) and draws on the gained experience. The project is for university professors and staff working in the information point for global education, who already gained knowledge on global education during previous projects, but also for new university professors, who are just starting to explore this area. A group of 22 professors and staff will be formed- a diverse, mutually enriching community, exchanging experience and gaining new skills together. The current project has a plan of 3 essential areas: 1. Continuing in the research of global education at all participating universities based on the methodology of Prof. Andreotti and following the example of TUZVO. Thus we will gain data necessary to identify the needs and ideas of students and staff even in other universities- the outcome will be in the form of 400 processed questionnaires, an evaluation report and articles in scientific journals. 2. The next step to be done is providing the participating university professors with necessary teaching tools and skills needed for teaching the principles and topics of global and developmental education. As a result there will be innovated curricula in at least 7 courses at 3 universities. Throughout the duration of the project these courses will be attended by a minimum of 500 students and 40 assignment topics made by students of the participating universities will be focusing on areas of global education. 3. The last crucial activity of the project is the creation of three innovative audiovisual materials of „live books“ , which will serve as teaching material and a stimulus for many activities of global education in the teaching process in various fields of study at the three participating universities. During the duration of the project, these materials will be used in the teaching process of at least 200 students of the participating universities. These three basic goals of the project will be enriched by other additional activities (public discussions, a training session, introductory workshops of beginning professors
